TAKE NOTE...

- We are a non-profit so every dollar counts and you can be sure we count every dollar! Please help us save by paying with a check when you can! Thank you!
- PLEASE remember court etiquette and don't cross courts while people are on a court even if they are not actively hitting.
- During these summer months and nice weather, court bookings are sometimes lean in the later afternoon and a decision may be made to close early. If you are planning to drop in to play after 3:00 p.m. without a court reservation, please call first. Early closures will be announced on Facebook and the answering machine.

How do I call it? and other questions tennis lovers ask...

The USTA website has this handy little booklet to answer your questions like "who's serve is it?" or "whose point was that?" and other dilemmas, if you want to get into the details.

Here is an example:

Question: During my doubles match, both my partner and I went for a ball. Our racquets clashed, but I was able to make contact with it and hit a winner. Our opponents claimed that they won the point because our racquets hit each other. Were they correct?

Answer: Looks like you and your partner need to work on your communication. You are lucky you hit racquets and not each other! Although not ideal, as long as it is clear that only one racquet hit the ball, your return is legal. (ITF Rule 24)

And you can always ask your A-Copi tennis pros!
